Savant Labs Launch New Updated Website!

Savant Labs launched a redesigned upgraded website based on suggestions from you, our customers.

Improvements to SavantLab.com include:

- Quick Links – Links to the most frequently used documents such as our test list and Test Authorization Form (TAF) conveniently and prominently located in the home page for easy access and your convenience.
- Sampling and Submitting Samples - Detailed instructions and tips for proper sampling and submitting samples to Savant Labs to save you time.
- Applications - A new page to help ensure that you get the right testing for a given lubricant application.
- Elastomer / Seal Compatibility Testing - Learn about our capabilities.
- Test Descriptions - A new page conveniently organized by test type and category. You can learn more about a test of interest to understand the fit for your application.
- Custom Project Services - A new page detailing our custom project services to dive deeper into the extensive services Savant Labs can provide.
- Savant Labs' Quality Certifications - Easy access from the Quality Assurance page for your convenience.

And Much More!

We invite you to explore our newly redesigned Savant Labs website and save it to your favorites or bookmark it for easy reference. For all those who visit our Oil and Fluid Testing Page, for a short period, you will find a discount code for 10% off your next testing order. We look forward to your testing business. Please contact us to set up your next testing project.

SavanTech Reference Fluid & Blending Services

SavanTech® is a division of Savant Labs that formulates and certifies custom reference and calibration materials for complex viscosity, oxidation and performance tests used throughout the lubricants industry. In addition, we provide customized blending for testing projects. SavanTech recently worked with a global lubrication formulator to blend a variety of samples to performance test their new additives. In conjunction with the Lab, a slate of testing was performed providing the formulator with a wealth of information for its research and development project. Please contact us to discuss your project.
